William H. Seward.

' This gentleman is the able, the intelligent, the consistent, the firm, the candid, and the inde pendent advocate of certain unpopular, and, as we believe, untenable principles. As a Whig we can think with him, while on other subjects we differ. Yet in thus differing we will not do him ipjustice. The history of his life is without stain or blemish. In every relation of social life he adorns his position; and they who have known him from his boyhood up, whether his political friends or adversaries, concur in bearing testimony to his virtuous career. He is often denounced as the vilest of the vile, and it is said to be a perilous thing to utter a word in his defence. Let that peril be ours, with all its consc quences. The political William H. Seward may be denounced and condemned, if you will; but William H. Seward, the scholar, the gentleman the jurist and the statesman, will live in honored memory when the memory of thousands of the popular politicians of the present day shall exist no more.

Of the daily and hourly denunciations of Mr. Seward we are sick and weary. He is of "Freesoil" sentiment, it is true, and thinks as we do not and cannot think upon that and other sub jects. But is it not so with Mr. Rantoul, with Mr. Sumner, with Mr. Hale, with Mr. King, and a score of others in both parties? Yet who denounces them? Who proclaims at every utterance of their names the anathemas of a whole nation? Who invokes the ruffian and the hangman to their execution? If the Almighty has endowed Mr. Seward with a mind of superior power; if he has nobly cherished the talent thus bestowed; if his moral reputation is brighter and purer than men usually possess; if by his exalted character as a citizen, a husband, and a father, he has so won the love and confidence of his fellow-men that his influence is wide and firmly planted, must we therefore scorn and repudiate him? The prejudiced and timid may, but we will not. We stand upon neutral ground, in this national metropolis, where a Calhoun, a Rhett, and a Venable have proclaimed Southern disunion opinions, with threats and menaces; and while it has been our pleasure to acknowledge and respect the social virtues and amenities evinced by these gentlemen, we must regard the spirit as craven and cowardly that would offer insult and contumely to the representative of the other extreme, who, while he wars with them in open, avowed, and honorable warfare, waves the olive-branch before our eyes with reference to all other themeswhose greatest sin cannot be greater than theirs, and the mildness and gentleness of whose nature can alone induce a less tolerant and liberal tone in the language of his opponents.

In Mr. Seward's heterodox sentiments, we repeat, we have no sympathy; in his reputation, as an ornament to society, we find cause of pride and the highest gratification.

A resolution proposed by Mr. Easby was unani mously adopted, appointing a committee to prepare an address to the several municipal corporate bodies of the United States, in reference to contributions to aid in the erection of the Washington National Monument.

Samuel Grubb was also elected police magistrate of the Third Ward, and Jeremiah Hepburn assessor of the Fifth Ward.

Beautiful Exhibition.

One of the most beautiful and instructive exhibitions ever witnessed in this country is now open at Odd-Fellows' Hall. It consists of Bayne's celebrated original gigantic series of panoramas, entitled a Voyage to Europe, comprising panoramic views of Boston, its harbor, Halifax, the Atlantic, river Mersey, Liverpool, London from the Thames, passing under the bridges, and ending with a magnificent view of the Thames Tunnel, brilliantly illuminated, and both sides of the river Rhine!

The Succession. In New Jersey, the cry of the Democrats is, "Pierce and King, and Stockton the successor." The Chicago (Illinois) Democrat, after asserting its acquiescence in General Pierce's nomination,

"Now, we must re-elect Judge Douglas to the Senate, and pave the way to have him succeed General Pierce. It is of the utmost importance, then, that we get up good legislative tickets, and that we have no bolting anywhere this year. Let our rallying cry be the re election of Douglas."

Louisiana-Again. We yesterday gave a hurried sketch of the proceedings of the great ratification meeting in the city of New Orleans; and we have now the pleasure of gracing our columns with an extract from a brilliant and chivalric article from the New Orleans Bulletin, edited by Colonel Seymour, a gentleman of rare talents and accomplishments, and a whole-souled Whig. Colonel S. is a native of Georgia. He figured extensively and advantageously in his native State, and was on friendly and, we think, intimate terms with Messrs. Robert Toombs and Alexander H. Stephens. It will be seen by the extract below that the editor of the Bulletin (who had been favorable to the nomination of Mr. Fillmore) endorses to the fullest extent the letter of General Scott accepting the nomination tendered him by the National Convention. The worthy Colonel speaks in rapturous terms of the letter of the patriot hero," and the beauty and excellence of the style of the comment is worthy of the sterling Whig orthodoxy of the letter itself. Should the sentiments of Col. S. meet the eye of Messrs. Toombs and Stephens, we can imagine their feelings, but would be far from envying them. We will not keep our readers longer from the extract. Here it is :

"THE LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE .- We have pe rused Gen. Scott's letter with lively satisfaction. In it the old hero takes BROAD, NOBLE, AND NA-TIONAL GROUNDS-sanctified by the most exalted patriotism, and worthy the mind and heart of one whose services to his country as far surpass, in number, value, and usefulness, those of any compeer, as the sun of mid-day exceeds in brilliancy the paler orbs of night. THE GLORIOUS OLD SOLDIER SAYS AS MUCH AS ANY SOUTHERN MAN COULD DESIRE HIM TO SAY; he is as explicit as it is possible to be, and comes up to the support of the Southern platform as emphatically as could be wished. * * * * * A nobler platform was never framed for the guidance of any man, and most promptly and pairiotically has Winfield Scott placed imself upon it.

Winfield Scott will stand up to the pledge, according to its full letter and spirit, there is no sort of doubt. THE MAN WOULD BE DEEMED DEMENTED WHO WOULD CHARGE THE VICTOR OF NIAGARA WITH COWARDICE; YET SUCH AN ALLEGATION WOULD BE NO MORE GROSS AND NAUSEATING THAN ONE IMTIMATING WILFUL DECEPTION OR DESIGN TO FORFEIT HIS PLIGHTED WORD

" The letter from William A. Graham is brief, but minently satisfactory. It is just such a one as might have been expected from so true a Whig, so able and patriotic a gentleman, and so zealous and faithful a Southerner. The two letters will compare favorably with any ever written under such circum-

We learn by a despatch from Philadelphia that fire broke out about half-past 6 o'clock last evening in the fifth story of the large brown stone building opposite the State House, on Chestnut street, occupied principally by Speakman & Co.'s India-rubber manufactory. The lower stories were occupied by B. B. Brown, fringe and cord maker; William S. Harrison, decorative articles; O. C. B. Carter's piano ware-rooms, Safford & Cookman's curtain store, Carryl & Co.'s curtain store; Bassford's billiard saloons and the Waverley Bowling Saloon occupied the basement. The fire was principally confined to the upper stories, though the lower floors were greatly damaged by water. Hamson & Mitchell's picture frame manufactory was also burnt. The fire was confined by the firemen to the building in which it commenced. The loss is heavy, being but partly covered by insurance. O. C. B. Carter had a large and costly stock of musical instruments all nearly ruined, among which were twenty-four pianos and melodeons.

The most perfect and admirable daguerreotype likeness we have ever seen has just been made of General WINFIELD SCOTT, by Mr. Bennett, of this city. It is of very large size, and as clear and distinct as the reflection from a polished mirror.

We learn that the old General sat for this likeness with cheerfulness and patience, though under protest, declaring that so frequently has be of late been called upon to sit to artists of va rious kinds that he must henceforth refuse. If others have succeeded as well as Mr. Bennett. we do not, indeed, think further efforts are

The Whigs of Knoxville, Tennessee.— Gen. Jackson and Gen. Scott.—The Burr Conspiracy.

At a large meeting of the Whigs of Knox county, Tennessee, on the 5th instant, Col. Geo. W. Sneed, one of the delegates of the State at large to the Whig National Convention, delivered an able and eloquent address, which we find reported in the Knoxville Register. We quote an nteresting portion of this report:

"Col. Sneed alluded to certain charges against Jen. Scott, bruited about by the Democrats, of defalcation and of suspension and disgrace! He was tried by a court-martial for withholding money placed in his hands for the payment of troops, (the 'four hundred dollars,' of which this community has heard heretofore,) and the court acquitted him of all fraudulent intention;' th finding of the court being simply that his conduct was unofficer-like, in that he had not formal couchers for about fifty dollars, although he had irregular receceipts therefor. He was also tried for using disrespectful language to his superior offi-After Gen. Wilkerson had been arrested for participation in the Burr conspiracy, Scott denounced him as a traitor and a scoundrel; and it was upon this charge he was tried and suspended. The only matter the court had seriously found against Scott was an indiscretion in words-and that, too, originating in an excess of patriotism.

"A good deal has been said in relation to a difficulty between Gen. Jackson and Gen. Scott, and Col. Sneed confessed that the letters published by the newspapers presented the affair in an unfavorable light for Gen. Scott. But these letters do not give a complete history of the affair, and Col. Sneed read the following letters which had passed between Scott and Jackson. The former, hearing that, on meeting, the latter would probably offer him some sort of outrage or insult, ddressed him the following note:

"'WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11, 1823. "'SIR: One portion of the American community has long attributed to you the most distinguished magnanimity, and the other portion the greatest desperation, in your resentments. Am I to conclude that both are in error? I allude to circumstances which have transpired between us, and which need not here be recapituated, and to the fact that I have now been six days in your immediate vicinity without having attracted your notice. As this is the first time in my life that I have been within a hundred miles of you, and as it is barely possible that you may be ignorant of my presence, I beg leave to state that I shall not leave the district before the morning of the 14th inst.

"I have the honor to be, sir, your most obe-WINFIELD SCOTT. "'The Hon. Gen. A. Jackson, Senator, &c."

I am satisfied of one fact, that arrearages may be paid. when you shall know me better, you will not be lisposed to harbor the opinion that anything like 'desperation in resentment' attaches to me.

"'Your letter is ambiguous; but, concluding from occurrences heretofore that it was written with friendly views, I take the liberty of saying to you that whenever you shall feel disposed to meet me on friendly terms, that disposition will not be met by any other than a corresponding feeling on my part.

"Col. Sneed said that Gen. Jackson's estimate of Gen. Scott's abilities and discretion might be gathered from the important mission he sent him on to South Carolina in the days of nullification. Gen. Cass was then Secretary of War, and, in his official order to Gen. Scott, he says:

" 'He (President Jackson) has full confidence in your judgment and discretion, and it is his wish that you repair immediately to Charleston, and examine everything connected with the fortifica-tions. You are at liberty to take such measures, either by strengthening those defences or reinforcing those garrisons with troops drawn from any other posts, as you may think prudence and a

More Words from a Scott Democrat.

[Correspondence of the Daily American Telegraph.] NAVY YARD, Washington, July 11.

SIR: For your promptness in publishing my nications, you have the gratitude of an humble soldier.

In writing those letters, I did not intend that any part of my statement should have been to Gen. W. Scott's political opponents "gall mixed with wormwood;" but such I find to be the case. I hear it said that the writer is no other than yourself, and that you have fabricated them to serve a purpose for the Whig party. If there is any merit in those letters, it belongs to history, the world, and Gen. Scott; and, as such, should the curious call upon you for the name and address of the writer, you can give it to them.

Personally Gen. Scott does not know me, and, n all human probability, never will. I was, from the first day he landed in Tampico until he was brought home from the city of Mexico, a very close observer of his manner and actions toward all under his command. I had frequent opportunities of seeing him receive his visiters, from a Major General down to a private soldier, and can truly say that to the private he was in every respect as much of the gentleman as to his next in command.

I remember that on the day after he arrived n Tampico he was by invitation to dine with Major Gen. Patterson. And here I have as true and a better story than that about the sugar candy! His orderly was called, and a dollar given him to go into the city and purchase a shaving-brush. It was bought, and the orderly gave the brush, with the change, into the hands of Gen. Scott. The General expressed himself well pleased, and, returning the change to the orderly, he remarked: "As the troops have not lately been paid off, you can perhaps find use for this." The amount was not large, to be sure; but the manner and tone of voice in which it was ziven made the recipient feel grateful and proud. He and the writer of this went forthwith to the 'Fonda," in the plaza of Tampico, and there, in a bottle of claref, drank long life and happiness to Gen. Winfield Scott!

All that I write of Gen. Scott is truth : and if hose who read it do not like it, I can at some future time supply them with more of the same tenor. I am yours, truly,

Warranted superior to any other in use for destroying Bedbugs,

And all kinds of Bugs and Worms. THIS article, being in a liquid form, can be easily applied to Bedsteads, or wherever it is required, with a feather or brush, leaving no disagreeable smell whatever in the rooms—which renders this article more desirable in use, as well as superior to any other.

Wainscots, Bedsteads, Fire-places, de., anointed with this article, will ever after be cleansed of Bugs or Worms, as it is so strong and poisonous to these noxious animals as to cause them to fall dead from Bedsteads, &e., when running over parts where this Liquid has once been applied. This is also one of the best articles ever introduced into this country for destroying

WORMS AND INSECTS ON TREES, and will retain its strength longer than any other preparation of the kind.

NOTICE.

MR. J. EDREHI, a native of Morocco, has the an excellent article called AMULETS, which is a preventive of Cholera, Scarlet Fever, and other contagious discases—was extensively worn in England during the rage of Cholera in 1832, and it was approved by the Medical Faculty in that country. This Amulet is a berry that grows upon a tree on Mount Lebanou, in a botanic garden near Jerusalem. It has been patronized in the four quarters of the world. This Amulet is an excellent article to prevent the spread of contagious diseases—from its smell is a preventive of Fevers and general decline of the system. It is worn as a necklace around the neck for ornament, and also as a bracelet around a certain article for the preventive of moths in clothing.
